

LANCE PETERSON APPOINTED SATELLITE ADMINISTRATOR AT NEW ENGLAND SINAI HOSPITAL

STOUGHTON, MA – Lance Peterson, longtime Chief of Physician Assistants at New England Sinai Hospital and resident of Quincy, MA, has been appointed Satellite Administrator at the hospital. “I am pleased to announce this special appointment,” said President and CEO Lester P. Schindel. “For 25 years, Lance Peterson has been a steady force at Sinai, leading by example and epitomizing quality and compassionate patient care. With his many years of management experience, I am confident that his performance as Satellite Administrator will be exceptional.”

In his position as Satellite Administrator, a newly created position at Sinai, Peterson is responsible for the administration and overall operational performance of hospital satellites, including clinical, financial, quality, and patient satisfaction. Sinai currently operates inpatient satellite units at Tufts-New England Medical Center in Boston and Caritas Carney Hospital in Dorchester. Lawrence Hotes, MD, Chief Medical Officer at Sinai said, “Lance Peterson is one of the most competent medical professionals I have had the pleasure to work with. He has the ability to combine sound medical judgment, compassionate patient care and management oversight in an adept and timely manner. His performance speaks for itself.”

Peterson began his career as a Navy Hospital Corpsman. He graduated from the University of Massachusetts, Amherst with a B.S. in nursing in 1977, then worked as an ICU Nurse at Boston City Hospital and at Shriners’s Burns Institute. Immediately after graduating from Northeastern University’s Physician Assistant Program in 1981, Peterson began working as a Physician Assistant in cardio thoracic surgery at St. Elizabeth’s Medical Center. He came to Sinai to work as a Physician Assistant in 1982 and was promoted to Chief of Physician Assistants in 1991. In 2005, he was selected as a finalist for Sinai’s prestigious Compassionate Care Award and hailed as a “highly respected and valued clinician who is extremely warm and generous with his time to patients and their families, and for “showing, time and time again, what it means to be compassionate.”

New England Sinai Hospital is a 212-bed, non-sectarian, not-for-profit, long-term acute-care hospital with its main campus in Stoughton, MA and inpatient satellite units in Boston and Dorchester. Recognized as a regional leader in pulmonary, medically complex and acute rehabilitation care, Sinai also offers a wide range of outpatient programs and services. Sinai is a teaching affiliate of Tufts University School of Medicine.
